IT'S YOUR RED CROSS
 The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross offers Americans an opportunity to become associated with an organization that serves human beings in their direct need.
 Whether in war, or in peace, the stricken are succored. It is an amazing undertaking, made possible because average Americans contribute relatively small sums to keep the work going. Naturally, at this time the war work of the Red Cross receives much attention. Thousands of volunteer workers, all over the United States, are busy preparing garments and bandages, to be used by those afflicted by the grim spectre of war. Others serve as the ministering hands to carry aid to suffering individuals.
 It is not permitted for us all to do the actual work of the Red Cross, whether in war or in peace, but it is our privilege to take part in the labor of money by providing our share of the money that is necessary in the continuance of this great service to mankind.

NO APOLOGY FOR WAR STUFF
 This newspaper has printed news editorials and articles about the war, and we have been asked several times why we devote so much to that subject.

No newspaper editor need apologize for expatiating upon the issues involving the United States as it faces a critical decision in regard to the great war that threatens to engulf the entire world.

There may be important matters for the editorial mind, such as the outcome of Saturday's football games, the evenness of ping-pong, and such other stuff, but the war threatens not only our liberties and the lives of our young men, but even the normal procedure of civilization.

The outcome of the struggle in Europe will probably shape the course of the world and the development of mankind for hundreds of years. It challenges every person to consider the idea of civilization and threatens destruction to the loaves beyond comparison.

"As we understand it, the Government is getting a bit worried about the Average Citizen having too much spare change, and is considering steps to dispose of the situation," Times Union. The government need not worry about us. We've been deflated below the level of spare change.

An ex-waiver says: "Back in 1917-18, during our first run-in with Germany, et al, we did our bit on some of the Sin's battle-wagons and troop transports. And reading about the so-and-so Nazis using the Stars and Stripes, to disguise one of their vessels, makes our trigger finger itch for the feel of a good five-incher under our hands again."

"Those who think they can believe Hitler should recall that not so long ago all he wanted was a corridor. Now he wants two hemispheres,"—Tribune Star-Advocate. Yes, Henry, and he'll probably get what he wants unless a lot more Americans wake up!

Don't forget your church when you figure on spending your money. The average citizen owes more to his church, as an institution among men, than he generally realizes.

Prob'ly Facts

By DICK LEFELS

Well, sir, it seems like seeking autographs in this country is getting to be a law unto itself for everybody is trying to get some one to sign something even if it's a button. But thanks to the Supreme Court, you will still be bothered with me and the poor fellow thinking our way around the Court wouldn't just their autograph on the bill.

The Republicans started their autograph on the bill. The Democrats' lot then until they won't work. So the President has left it up to Congress to reduce the want of the nation and to trim the eyebrows of Lewis the great, for the President told Congress: "I'll let you write your own ticket on labor strikes."

With the passing of such a law to rule strikes out will cause life insurance policy to take the upward jump over the nation, for there's an awful pile of ticks and pipes laying around handy that you may be tempted to use.

The maddest man in the neighborhood is a neighbor of mine, who has the means. He said what got my goat, I was getting along pretty good until the doctor told me they were the German or Nazi variety that I had said since then I have been so hot and mad until I have broken out with the things until I look as red as a frying-pan chicken that isn't a feather on his back in the summer time.

Iman W. Weeks of Kilgore's seed store heard the Governor was in Miami, Imman, being an old enemy of the Governor's from way back of riding saplings down together in the far woods of Polk county, rushed out and bought himself the finest chair he could find in an easy rocker when you flop down on it.

The British have opened up a new front in Libya, chasing the Dagoes, with American-made tanks and planes. They claim they are giving the Dagoes an awful antagonism. I imagine when the word means, it means it's kicking somebody that doesn't know you're not running. But what ever you call it, I hope they have better luck than they had elsewhere, for if they don't it will be an awful jolt to the morale of the American tax payer.

The state of California along in it, placed it in the coolest place in the office, and told the boys to lay off it, that is the "Holland Chair".

 Weeks with the Governor to drop by when he come through. I have something to show you, as well as talk about it. But the Governor by some act of nature got his wires crossed up to where he passed Weeks up on the trip through town, and didn't get a chance to use the "Holland Chair".

Despite world complications, we still will be able to appreciate Thanksgiving Day, as it has always been. Although the date has been changed and the holiday celebrated a week earlier in some 33 states, it is sure to be a day of thanksgiving in the hearts of all, regardless of the day.

doubtless, all the traditional elements of the first Thanksgiving—turkey, pumpkins, and all the other good things to eat—will be connected with this same day of 1941. Churches all over the country will be filled with people and the special occasion will be celebrated at football games and in other manners of equal interest. Although the people may be overjoyed to see the turkey, they will also realize the situation of the country and rejoice at the fact that their country, the United States of America, is still a free and a place of freedom and equality where every man can worship his God in any way he sees fit.

UNDER THE PALM LEAF
"I own a mule. It is the first mule I ever had and will be my last one. My mind is my mule. I suppose many other people have mules of the same kind. I notice that in every picture of the human head, the mule has the top place among the hieroglyphics. A mule, as compared to the great spirit of an owner, does not regulate his movements according to the will of its owner. The mule's business hours do not always correspond to those of its driver and so inconvenience is often occasioned thereby to both parties. I think Mark Twain shames the mule, and yet we must allow that it is troublesome at times.

Sometimes when I am most anxious that my mule shall go, he deliberately stands still. I try to spur him on, but he will not budge. I have seen men in the pulpit very much in the plight of the driver of that rebellious mule. They stearn, they hammer, but they can not get underway. I would rather be grazing, stock on Broadway, hammering and chubbing a stubborn mule, than to stand before an audience in a vain attempt to force my mind into action when it does not want to. I have tried it. I have tried patting and coaxing, and I have tried jerking and spurring. Now I make a desperate effort. I summon all my strength. I determine that my mind shall go. It makes a few wild plunges, and then I go on a flight of imagination that I think will give me a fair start. I begin an ambitious sentence. Forward I am carried with a rush. I am not aware just where I am going. I add one word after another, and suddenly the mule stops. But down comes the whip and I am off again on another euphuistic sentence, only for him to stop again. I get off very ungracefully.

My mule is troublesome in another way. He gets started, goes like a whirl wind or tempest, and refuses to stop at my bidding. For time comes, I want to sleep! Whoa! Whoa! But the mule goes on and I can't get off. I sit from side to side. I resolve to think about nothing. I lie very still. I almost stop breathing, but it does not stop the thinking. Through the city, through the country, here and there and everywhere, I am carried in spite of my protesting that I don't want to go, till the mule is exhausted. I was exhausted long ago—and down he tumbles, and I drop into uneasy slumber in the seamy dream-land.

Again mules are often seen, especially in pictures, with their heads at the angle of elevation which intimates that it is best to keep at a respectful distance. In other words mules kick. My mental mule has heels, and it is difficult to keep them from flying in the faces of people who tempt them. When some self-conceited creature, with the air of omnipotence that is almost unbearable, solemnly and majestically leaves to inform you that you are seriously mistaken in some little, unimportant opinion, does your mule not kick instinctively?

Increase in the bean movement from down Lake Harney Bay. The bean crop in that section was a little larger than usual due to the heavy rains in the first part of October.

Some cabbage from early plantings are being cut, but the quality is not of the best due to too much warm weather at heading time. So far most of the cabbage have been on local markets, but the prices have been very good.
